

The Challenge

When exchanging data with partners and suppliers, a network transition takes place. Installed locally, this means increased work, maintenance, and security risks. And the transmission finally reaches its limits when it gets to the public and (partly) private cloud services, because they are very restrictive.

What about installing transfer tools? That's impossible.

The Solution

- The YAVEON Gateway. Your digital mailperson for all services.
- Fully integrated into YAVEON ProE-SCM (from version 5.10). No additional installation is required to communicate with the Gateway.
- Access of the customer database to the Gateway via web service and transfer of the data for dispatch.
- No security or firewall settings required thanks to one-way communication, where the customer database sends requests to the Gateway.
- Includes services such as administration and clearing, security measures, protocol changes, and many more.
